VX,

We review each case separately and each case stands on its own merits. Working with our legal and HR divisions, that's how we make decisions.

We (VolusiaExposed.Com) anticipates posting a follow up article on the Ofc. Jennifer Raulerson situation.

In our September 25, 2018 article - it was reported that Raulerson was on paid administrative leave - now she is apparently working for Animal Services.

While we (VolusiaExposed.Com) doesn't necessarily see anything inappropriate with Raulerson's assignment to Animal Services while her retail theft charge is being processed by the Court - we do wish to understand it (reassignment).

Under what rationale was Raulerson reassigned to Animal Services? Will this same rationale be offered in the future, to other officers in similar circumstances?

Why wasn't Sgt. Capps offered a similar employment option - or was she? Sgt. Capps merely had a former inmate steal her heart - while Ofc. Raulerson has been charged with retail theft. Why does one receive the option for "alternative employment" with the county - while the other is forced out?

Lately, there has been a battle fought within the print of our local media. Sheriff Chitwood argues that Volusia County government is corrupt - so much so - he has advised the FBI. The County Council argues the opposite - that the county is not corrupt.

Your explanation regarding Ofc. Raulerson's assignment to Animal Services should assist us in determining which side contain the good guys / gals within the Volusia County Civil War.

We look forward to your clarifications - absent any clarification - we shall note your silence.
