Subject: Brogan's In-custody Jail Death
Date: Tue, 08 Sep 2015 11:50:57 -0400

Mr. Dave Byron
Volusia County Spokesperson

Mr. Byron:

Read the DBNJ article regarding the Inmate Veira & Brogan in-custody deaths.

<http://www.news-journalonline.com/article/20150905/NEWS/150909701>

VolusiaExposed.Com is preparing our follow up article regarding the Brogan death. Our view point will differ slightly from the NJ's approach.

My questions for you (and correction officials) are as follows:

(1) How could jail staff NOT be aware of Ms. Brogan's sickness - IF they (staff) were conducting 2300 hrs head count & wristband check as defined in jail policy and procedure 400.18 (see attached copy)?

During the 2300hrs (11pm) head count - an officer goes around to each cell and compares the jail roster of names with each wristband attached to each inmate's wrist - to insure that each inmate is in the correct cell at 2300 hrs lockdown.

Inmate Brogan would have stood for 2 to 3 of these 2300 hrs head counts / wristband checks during her short incarceration. I find it extremely difficult to believe that Inmate Brogan's illness would not have been easily detectable during those 2300 hrs head counts.

(2) Did Ms. Volinsky (Brogan's cellmate) receive a "quid pro quo" deal for her testimony regarding whether jail staff was or was not aware of Brogan's illness? On the date of Brogan's death - Volinsky was in jail on Failure to Appear charges - NO bond.

However, shortly after Brogan's death, and Volinsky's statement to VCSO investigators - Volinsky was released from jail (ROR) - and shortly thereafter, entered into a deferred prosecution agreement with the State Attorney's office.

In the past, you have stated to me, that you have a reputation within the news media community of being a "straight shooter" ---- so shoot it to me straight Dave.

I WILL be addressing the above questions, and this email within my article - hopefully you will be able to provide me with some straight answers.

Regards;

VX
