On August 1, 1997, I became Board Certified in Criminal Trial Law and remain so to the present. My practice consisted of approximately 60% criminal defense representing those charged with or suspected of criminal activity, 30% dependency litigation representing parents being investigated for or had been accused by the Department of Children and Families with the abuse, abandonment, or neglect of their children, and 10% domestic and family litigation representing those involved in dissolution of marriage or paternity proceedings. My criminal practice consisted of those individuals who privately retained me and of those who were indigent and required a court-appointed lawyer. The offenses ranged from petit theft to murder in the first degree including cases in which the State sought the death penalty.

From 1985 to 1995, I was an Assistant State Attorney prosecuting a variety of criminal cases. I was one of three prosecutors that created the Sex Crimes and Child Abuse Unit in Orange County. When I left the State Attorney's Office, I was a felony division chief supervising other lawyers. For questions 23 through 30, I will answer for the last position held as a practicing attorney (before taking the bench on May 2, 2003).

Identify your client and describe the nature of your participation in the case and the reason you believe it to be significant. Give the name of the court and judge, the date tried and names of other attorneys involved.

State of Florida v. Jeannie Melbourne, Orange County Circuit Court Case Number: 48-1992-CF-11486/A-O. I was lead counsel for the people of the State of Florida with Brett Bressler. This matter proceeded to jury trial between March 31 and April 2, 1993 and was tried before the Honorable Michael F. Cycmanick with opposing counsel, Steven Mason. The trial and facts were rather unremarkable, but the exchange between counsel and the court during jury selection about the reason for the State's exercise of a preemptory challenge brought much needed clarification regarding the appropriate test to be used by the trial court in determining whether the use of a preemptory challenge is race-neutral.

State of Florida v. Arthur DeBose, Orange County Circuit Court Case Number: 48-1992-CF-6858-O. I was co-counsel for the State of Florida charging Murder in the First Degree and two counts of Kidnapping with Jeffrey Ashton. The State of Florida sought and obtained a death penalty recommendation from the jury. The trial court overrode the recommendation and imposed a sentence of life in prison. The trial was conducted before the Honorable Richard F. Conrad on May 24th through 31st, 1994, and September 19th and 20th, 1994, with opposing counsel, Don West. I was involved in every aspect of pre-trial discovery and motion practice and fully participated in the trial. The Defendant was indicted for the torture and execution of an associate in the drug business and the kidnapping of another. The case required considerable research and litigation on the trial court's ability to engage in a proportionality analysis. I have litigated a number of death penalty cases as a prosecutor and defense attorney, and each is significant in some respect.

State of Florida v. Thomas Lee Gudinas, Orange County Circuit Court Case Number: 48-1994-CF-7132-O; 693 So. 2d 953 (Fla., 1997); post-conviction relief, 816 So. 2d 1095 (Fla., 2002). I was co-counsel for the State of Florida charging Murder in the First Degree, Attempted Burglary with an Assault, Attempted Sexual Battery (Great Force), and two counts of Sexual Battery (Great Force) with Jeffrey Ashton, Esquire. The State of Florida sought and obtained the death penalty for this murder. The trial was conducted before the Honorable Belvin Perry on May 1st through 10th, 1995, with opposing counsel, Michael Irwin and Robert LeBlanc. The case involved the particularly brutal sexual battery and murder of a young woman in downtown Orlando. I was involved in every aspect of pre-trial discovery and conducted approximately one-half of the trial including opening statement and one-half of the closing argument. The case garnered significant pre-trial publicity and was broadcast on Court TV. Any case in which the State seeks to exact the ultimate penalty upon one of its citizens must be treated as significant. In addition, this case produced a refinement of the law of joinder and the law relating to mitigating circumstances.

State of Florida v. Todd Eric Dumas, Orange County Circuit Court Case Number: 48-1994-CF-8918-O; 700 So. 2d 1223 (Fla., 1997). I was chief counsel for the State of Florida charging Manslaughter by Driving under the Influence, Leaving the Scene of an Accident with Death, and Vehicular Homicide; co-counsel was Timothy Berry. H. Manuel Hernandez and Chandler R. Muller were opposing counsel. The trial was conducted before the Honorable Alice Blackwell on August 21st through 25th, 1995. Of the approximately twenty-three prosecution witnesses called to testify, I examined all but two. I also conducted the cross-examination of two defense experts. At the time of trial, no standard jury instruction existed for the crime of Leaving the Scene of an Accident with Death. Supreme Court case law created a knowledge element for the crime of Leaving the Scene with Injury. The Defendant argued that precedent permitted conviction of Leaving the Scene with Death only if the State could prove that the Defendant knew that the victim was dead. I argued that the law required a citizen to stop, and therefore permitted conviction, if the Defendant knew that the victim was either injured or dead. The death of the victim merely increased the penalty for the crime. The Fifth District Court of Appeal agreed with the Defense, but the Florida Supreme Court approved the State's interpretation of the statute, settling this questionable area of the law.

State of Florida v. Princess Haliburton, Orange County Circuit Court Case Number: 48-1996-CF-587-O. I was sole counsel for the Defendant charging Murder in the First Degree. This case was tried before the Honorable Michael F. Cycmanick on October 14th through 17th, 1996, with opposing counsel, Edward J. Culhan, Jr., and Mario Romero. I was court appointed to represent a thirteen-year-old girl charged as an adult with the first degree murder of a fourteen year old. My client was the first child of this age to be indicted for first degree murder in Orange County. Although this case did not involve appellate review because neither the Defendant nor the State appealed the manslaughter verdict or seven year sentence, we litigated several significant issues regarding the accountability of a child when charged in the adult arena. This case garnered much pre-trial publicity and was broadcast live on Court TV. This case was the major impetus propelling me into dependency litigation, both as guardian ad litem and parent's counsel.

State of Florida v. Rishan Sagar, Orange County Circuit Court Case Number: 48-1997-CF-8891/A-O, 727 So. 2d 1118 (5th DCA, 1999). I was chief counsel appointed to represent the Defendant, along with co-counsel, Francis Iennaco. This case did not proceed to trial but was litigated before the Honorable Reginald Whitehead and the Honorable Belvin Perry between October, 1997, and July, 1999, with opposing counsel, Edward J. Culhan, Jr. and Jeffrey Ashton for the State of Florida, Andrea Black and David Fussell for the co-defendant, Harnanan, and Kathleen Flammia and Robert Wesley for the co-defendant, Katwaroo. The Defendant and two co-defendants were indicted for the brutal death of a west Orange County woman that occurred during the course of a carjacking. During discovery, the co-defendants attempted to obtain copies of records of my client. Judge Whitehead granted the co-defendants' requests. I filed a Petition for Writ of Certiorari arguing that the records sought fell within the attorney/client privilege. The Fifth District Court of Appeal agreed that the records sought by opposing counsel fell within the attorney/client privilege clarifying an ambiguous area of law, which may ultimately benefit anyone relying upon the protections of this privilege.

31. Attach at least one example of legal writing which you personally wrote. If you have not personally written any legal documents recently, you may attach writing for which you had substantial responsibility. Please describe your degree of involvement in preparing the writing you attached.

The writing samples attached were personally written by me. I have included samples covering criminal, civil, and family law cases.

From May, 2003 to December 31, 2008, I was assigned to the circuit criminal division where I presided over every aspect of felony cases. During my tenure, I disposed of approximately 120 to 150 cases per month. In addition to my caseload assignment, I was assigned as the associate administrative judge in 2006 and as the administrative judge and judge presiding over drug court in 2007 and 2008.

For the calendar years of 2009 and 2010, I was assigned to the domestic relations division where I presided over dissolution of marriage and paternity cases. For these two years, I resolved between 200 and 500 cases per month comprising both initial petitions and post-judgment matters. During this time, the caseload was reduced from 3700 pending initial and post-judgment petitions to 2500 pending initial and post-judgment petitions. In 2010, I was the administrative judge of this division.

In 2011, I moved to the general civil division where I presided over every aspect of a wide variety of civil cases from medical malpractice, tobacco, and automobile negligence to real property and collection matters. During 2011, the caseload in division 39 was reduced from 5841 pending cases to 4361 pending cases. The division averaged 199 new initial complaints per month and concluded 304 cases per month. I was the associate administrative judge of the circuit civil division.

From January, 2012 to December 31, 2016, I was assigned to the business court division in the Ninth Circuit handling complex commercial litigation which includes business and contract disputes, disputes arising from the internal governance or dissolution of a business entity, professional malpractice, and a wide variety of other commercial matters. The division averaged 25 new complaints per month and approximately 31 cases per month were brought to disposition. The pending caseload was reduced from 426 to 295. In addition to the assigned complex cases, I was assigned an eighth of the residential foreclosures in Orange County and actively managed these cases, reducing pending foreclosures from 3,129 to 350. From 2012 through 2016, I was the administrative judge of the civil division.

From January, 2017 to December 31, 2018, I was assigned to the criminal division as the trial division judge with a temporary assignment to division 11 and assumed the duties of the administrative judge of the division. In addition to these duties, I presided over the tobacco litigation in Orange County.

Beginning in 2019, I returned to the general civil division.

- (iv) List citations or styles and describe the five most significant cases you have tried or heard. Identify the parties, describe the cases and tell why you believe them to be significant. Give dates tried and names of attorneys involved.

Please see answers to question 30 above. I have excluded cases that are pending and have included cases representative of each judicial assignment. In addition to the cases listed above, are the following:

RP Baldwin Residential, LLC, et. al v. Travelers Property Casualty Company of America, et. al, Orange Circuit Court Case Number 48-2009-CA-3620-O. Counsel for plaintiffs included Adam Handfinger, Esquire, and Nathan Cohen, Esquire, among others. The case involved over 70 first, third and fourth party defendants. Defense counsel most involved in the litigation were John Osgathorpe, Esquire, Andrew Thompson, Esquire, Jayne Pittman, Esquire, Wayne Tosko, Esquire, Thomas Justice, III, Esquire, Robert Swift, Esquire, Leo Meirose, Jr., Esquire, Stephen House, Esquire, and Scott Lindquist, Esquire, among many others. The case involved the alleged defective construction of the commercial spaces in Baldwin Park. Leading to trial, both plaintiffs and defendants filed extensive partial summary judgment motions to narrow the issues for trial. Many motions involved pure questions of law and were matters of first impression with no binding precedent in the state. I enjoy the preparation, research and writing on the novel issues in this and other complex construction cases. The claims have settled.

Peggi Gunshanan v. Juan Herran, Pulmonary Practice of Orlando, PA, Henry B. Floyd, IV, Premier Advanced Imaging of Orlando, LLC, Central Florida Pulmonary Group, PA, Orange Circuit Court Case Number: 48-2007-CA-10988-O. Counsel for Plaintiff: Scott Bates, Esquire, and John Dill, Esquire. Counsel for Herran and Pulmonary Practice of Orlando, PA: Thomas Dukes, Esquire, and Frank Bishop, Esquire. Counsel for Henry Floyd: Richard Ford, Esquire, and Clay Coward, Esquire. Counsel for Central Florida Pulmonary Group: Francis Pierce, III, and Francis Pierce, IV. The case proceeded to jury trial from August 1 through August 11, 2011. The case involved multiple experts and contested evidentiary issues on both sides. During the jury's deliberations, one attorney discovered that a juror had been discussing the case on Facebook in violation of the court's daily instructions. Ultimately, the parties agreed to a mistrial with a resolution of the case tied to the jury's verdict. After the conclusion of the trial, I issued a rule to show cause against the juror and appointed one attorney as the prosecutor. I appointed the public defender to represent the juror. The contempt matter proceeded to hearing and the juror was found in indirect criminal contempt and sentenced to probation and community service. Neither the underlying matter nor the contempt proceeding were appealed.

Ellen Atanasoski v. Josif Atanasoski, Orange Circuit Court Case Number: 48-2006-DR-1219-O. The wife was represented by Terry Young, Esquire, and Richard Dellinger, Esquire. The matter in controversy was dissolution of a marriage. The husband was represented by J. Cheney Mason, Esquire, Thomas K. Equels, Esquire, and Mayanne Downs, Esquire. The case proceeded to non-jury trial on March 23 - 26, 2009 and January 4 - 8, 2010. Although the parties agreed to a partial equitable distribution of the marital assets, the parties disagreed upon the value of the closely-held manufacturing business owned in equal shares by the husband and the husband's brother. In addition, the parties disagreed upon alimony. The parties introduced expert testimony regarding the valuation of the closely-held corporation and the wife's ability to be self-sufficient. The final judgment of dissolution of marriage equitably distributed the parties' assets and awarded alimony. The case required hours of painstaking review of the evidence introduced to properly value the corporation and considerable time to draft the final judgment to accurately convey my findings. No appeal was taken.

Wraight v. Wraight, Orange Circuit Court Case Number: 48-2008-DR-12227-O, 71 So. 3d 139 (Fla. 5th DCA 2011). Counsel for the petitioner/husband was Jeffrey Feulner, Esquire, and counsel for the respondent/wife was Arlys Buschner, Esquire. The case involved the dissolution of marriage of two foreign nationals, the potential relocation of the minor child, and the Hague Convention. The case proceeded to an extensive evidentiary hearing on temporary time-sharing and relocation in 2009 and trial in 2010. The case involved the application of the Hague Convention, determination of the applicability of post-filing statutory changes, and consideration of the laws of Canada and the United Kingdom in distribution of the parties' assets. To appropriately address the matters required considerable legal research. Subsequently, I learned that the extensive final judgment and temporary order were being used as teaching aides for judges statewide on the subjects of relocation and time-sharing. The final judgment was affirmed on all matters except distributing one asset.

State of Florida v. Dane Abdool, Orange Circuit Court Case Number: 48-2006-CF-2848/A-O, 53 So. 3d 208 (Fla. 2010). Counsel for the State of Florida was Robin Wilkinson, Esquire. Attorneys for the defendant were Patricia Cashman, Esquire, and Kelly Sims, Esquire. The case proceeded to jury trial on February 13 through 25, 2008. The defendant was convicted of the first degree murder of his girlfriend by dousing her with gasoline and setting her afire. The case involved multiple experts in the guilt and penalty phases and many contested issues. The jury recommended a sentence of death by a vote of 10 to 2 which was imposed. The conviction and sentence were affirmed on appeal. Initial post-conviction proceedings in the trial court have concluded and were appealed. The Supreme Court ordered a new penalty phase proceeding based upon its decision in Hurst v. State, 202 So. 3d 40 (Fla. 2016). Abdool v. State, 220 So. 3d 1106 (Fla. 2017).

DIVISION ADMINISTRATIVE DUTIES:

Associate Administrative Judge, Civil Division, 2019 - present.

Administrative Judge, Criminal Division, 2017 - 2018. Upon re-assuming these duties, I coordinated and instituted a uniform trial order for the circuit criminal division and placed a new emphasis on the timely disposition of post-conviction motions. Additionally, I oversaw the creation of the Violation of Probation Alternative Sanctions Program which implements provisions of Florida Statute that divert probationers with technical violations of probation from jail or prison. Further, I oversaw implementation of the First Step program authorized by Florida Statute to assist indigent probationers with expenses, such as the cost of counseling, without taxpayer funds.

Administrative Judge, Civil Division, 2012 - 2016: After assuming the responsibilities of administrative judge, deficits in the operation of the circuit's foreclosure division became of concern because dispositions were not keeping pace with newly filed cases. I began supervision and reorganization of the circuit's foreclosure division in July, 2012, and continued those duties until June 30, 2014. The reorganization resulted in significant efficiencies, better training of staff, and a substantial increase in dispositions. In addition to keeping pace with new foreclosure filings, total pending foreclosures in Orange County were reduced from 26,767 in July, 2012 to 8,631 as of June 30, 2014.

Associate Administrative Judge, Civil Division, 2011.

Administrative Judge, Domestic Relations Division, 2010: In the year as administrative judge, I instituted division-wide management of cases with pro-se litigants. Because pro-se litigants are unfamiliar with the court system and without the knowledge to move the case to disposition, I instituted a system in which our Office of Family Court Services would identify cases needing attention, set them for case management conferences before the general magistrate, and be present with the necessary Supreme Court approved forms to assist the parties in moving the case toward disposition. In addition, I brought technological solutions to improve the processing of domestic violence injunctions by the court resulting in more timely disposition of petitions for temporary injunction for petitioners often waiting at the courthouse for a ruling.

Administrative Judge, Criminal Division, 2007 - 2008: As administrative judge of the circuit criminal division, I was tasked with resolving the recurring issues with the shortage of court reporters, juror utilization, and courthouse ingress and egress. The circuit criminal division remains the division that creates the bulk of the traffic in the courthouse and utilizes the most trial resources. To resolve the identified problems, I created a uniform trial schedule for the division to effectively utilize the limited services of the jury room and official court reporter and to evenly distribute large dockets over less congested days and times. The schedule continues to be utilized.

Associate Administrative Judge, Criminal Division, 2006.

CIRCUIT-WIDE ADMINISTRATIVE DUTIES:

Beginning in 2008 to June 30, 2019, I oversaw jury operations and court technology in the Ninth Circuit at the request of the Chief Judge. During that time, the Ninth Circuit implemented system and technological improvements to better serve the public and to save tax dollars.

Court Technology: Upon assuming responsibility, I moved the focus of the department from one strictly directed to enhancing infrastructure to one focused on the utilization of technology to more efficiently perform the tasks of the user. For example, the circuit instituted remote court interpreting for criminal and juvenile cases in proceedings other than trial. This innovation allows staff interpreters to perform their duties from a central location and saves significant travel time to outlying courthouses and within the main courthouse making court interpreters more readily available to the court and reducing the demand for contract interpreters. We partnered with the Office of State Courts Administrator to pilot remote interpreting to other circuits which allows smaller circuits without full-time interpreters the use of larger circuits' interpreters, saving both time and the cost of contract interpreters. This innovation will permit circuits to leverage the existing statewide resources before resorting to the more expensive alternative of a contract interpreter.

The circuit is a national leader in the use of technology. Under my guidance, we implemented the hardware and software to become a paperless court with the goals of redirecting resources from handling paper to the actual administration of justice and providing judges with the tools necessary to effectively manage the caseload. In addition, the circuit worked with the county to update the data infrastructure in each of the courthouses. With my focus on finding efficiencies in the use of public resources, the circuit continues to find novel, less expensive ways to add technology that assists the public, lawyers, jurors, and judges in the courtroom. Video conferencing capabilities have been provided in many divisions to permit attorneys to appear for proceedings remotely. Courtroom 23 continues to implement new technology that assists attorneys in trial and draws judges and court administrators from around the world.

In December, 2016, the Ninth Circuit and local law enforcement agencies implemented a circuit-wide electronic warrants system with the technical assistance of Orange County's ICJIS team. The system enables law enforcement officers to upload warrants into a web-based platform for remote review by judges. The system has resulted in immediate savings to taxpayers because officers can continue performing their duties rather than drive to the courthouse or a judge's home to have a warrant reviewed.

Jury Operations: While leading jury operations, the juror utilization rate was among the best in the state. During this period, the circuit improved jury operations by creating a web interface that permits those called for jury duty to input their information on the web. This innovation saves the juror significant time upon arrival at the courthouse and saves the court significant data entry costs while reducing data entry errors. In 2018, jury operations began using new technology which improved the public web interface and permitted jury staff to configure venire seating charts for use in the courtroom. Besides these improvements, the cost per summons decreased.

Judicial Mentor: From 2008 to the present, I have been appointed as a mentor for those newly appointed or elected to the circuit bench in the Ninth Circuit.

BRANCH-WIDE DUTIES:

Florida Courts Technology Commission: In 2012, Chief Justice Ricky Polston appointed me as chair of the Florida Courts Technology Commission, and I continue in that capacity today. Justice Polston remains the liaison between the FCTC and the Court. Rule 2.236, Florida Rules of Judicial Administration, created the 25 member Florida

Courts Technology Commission in 2010 with wide-ranging responsibility to make recommendations to the Supreme Court on technology policy and public access to electronic records, to establish technology standards and to create procedures to evaluate and approve taxpayer-funded technology while ensuring security, accessibility, and capability of integration throughout the divergent systems. The commission is responsible for a variety of other tasks under the rule.

As chair, the branch has seen the successful implementation of the state-wide e-portal and mandatory e-filing. The commission has created and approved standards for software that will permit courts to effectively utilize an electronic court file and create, file, and serve electronic orders. With approved standards, the branch secured the funding for installation of the software. Additionally, the commission created a systematic process to improve the functionality of the e-portal. The state court administrator and I met with the e-portal authority and negotiated the implementation of the electronic service aspect of the portal that became available in the fall of 2013 without cost to lawyers or the taxpayers. Recognizing that the judicial branch is stronger if the court and clerks work in concert, I have endeavored to seek input and guidance from elected clerks and their association on issues of unique importance to court operations. Working collaboratively with the clerks' association, many court records are now accessible to the public remotely and improvements to this innovative service continue. As chair, I have kept the focus of the commission on those for whom the government was established—the public—and have ensured that any system implemented will benefit both lawyers and the public.

Faculty of Handling Capital Cases: Under Rule 2.215, Florida Rules of Judicial Administration, every circuit judge who sits in a criminal division or has a case in which death is sought or has been imposed must take a four-day course on the fundamentals of presiding over a capital case. The judge must take a refresher of the course every three years while assigned to a death penalty case. I am one of eight circuit judges statewide on the permanent faculty for the course and teach approximately once per year, typically on several topics. I have been on the faculty since 2008.

Supreme Court Committee on Standard Jury Instructions in Criminal Cases: In 2005, I was appointed by the Supreme Court as a member of the committee and was appointed chair from 2009 to 2010. During my tenure, we undertook a systematic process to review all instructions for accuracy and consistency, discovering several frequently used instructions with outdated and inaccurate content. In addition, we kept pace with legislative changes to the criminal statutes.

Supreme Court Committee on Standard Jury Instructions - Contract and Business Cases: I was appointed to the committee by the Supreme Court in 2014 and remain active on the committee.

Fifth District Court, Associate Judge: I have been privileged to sit as an associate judge at the Fifth District Court five times. I have found the experience of working with other judges to adjudicate appeals to be particularly stimulating and rewarding.

These additional judicial responsibilities require the ability to bring consensus among colleagues and among those with competing interests, to find efficiencies in using public resources and to bring creative solutions to problems without compromising the effective administration of justice.

51. Explain the particular potential contribution you believe your selection would bring to this position.

Throughout my seventeen years of practice and sixteen years on the bench, I have had the great fortune of representing the people of the State of Florida, of representing private citizens, and of listening to citizens as a judge without the demands of advocacy. I have seen the human side of crime. I have seen the toll that litigation can take on individuals and businesses. I practiced law as a sole practitioner and was the owner of a small business. I have experienced the concerns and pressures that only owning your own business can bring. This has given me a unique perspective from which to view litigants and litigators who appear before me.

I was taught from a young age to have a strong work ethic and to treat others with courtesy and respect. I have aspired to carry those principles into my professional life and onto the bench. I have had an interest throughout my life in public service. During college, I volunteered with political campaigns. That commitment to public service led me to the Office of the State Attorney after graduation from law school and has continued to grow through serving our community on the bench.

I have the intelligence, work ethic, organizational skills, and temperament to effectively, efficiently, and honorably serve our citizens. I work well with colleagues, support staff and the public. I have a broad range of experience, both before taking the bench and while on the bench. I have presided over or litigated almost every type of case that will come before the appellate court, including complex commercial litigation, medical malpractice, personal injury, real property disputes, domestic relations and juvenile cases, criminal cases, and death penalty litigation. I have actively and efficiently managed each division to which I have been assigned. Those that appear before me know that I will have read the motion and any memorandum or other materials provided before the hearing, will be current on the law, and will be fully prepared to hear the matter and render a timely decision. I would bring these same qualities to the appellate bench.

52. If you have previously submitted a questionnaire or application to this or any other judicial nominating commission, please give the name of the commission and the approximate date of submission.

Ninth Judicial Circuit Judicial Nominating Commission: January, 2000, August, 2001, and January, 2003.

Fifth District Court of Appeal Judicial Nominating Commission: June 4, 2012; March 4, 2013; February 14, 2014; August 22, 2014, February 17, 2017 and May 11, 2018.

53. Give any other information you feel would be helpful to the Commission in evaluating your application.

For the past two years, I have been privileged to accompany Justice Lawson, other judges and lawyers to Honduras to build homes for families in need. The experience has been profoundly rewarding and magnifies my humble appreciation of the privilege to live in this great nation.

For many years, my family has supported Casa Hogar del Ninos Orphanage in Acapulco. My daughter and I have been privileged to assist the staff and children in person for several weeks over several summers.

I have great respect for the framework upon which this country and state were founded and am mindful of the limited, but vital, role of the judiciary envisioned by our forefathers. Judges must insure that constitutional requirements are honored, but must do so with an awareness of and respect for the decisions of the executive and legislative branches and of the citizens who entrusted them with our governance.
